CREATIVE COMICS WORKSHOP
BY ARTIST LEELA CORMAN

Welcome.

Mainstream comics have been increasingly open to experimenting with diversity in sexuality, race, gender, and disability. Marvel has a new Muslim woman superhero; “traditionally” straight superheroes have been coming out in new universes/continuities; and disability often crosses over into hyperability. However, many of these experiments in diversity have been limited or problematic, and have at times generated controversy. Alternative and independent comics, from the underground comix scene on, have long been a space for writers and artists to depict diverse characters who do not fit into the narrow mold of the straight, white, cissexual, neurotypical, and able-bodied male hero.

The analysis of diversity and representation in comic books is an integral and growing part of Comics Studies. Works of scholarship like Adilifu Nama’s Super Black: American Pop Culture and Black Superheroes (2011), Sheena C. Howard and Ronald L. Jackson II’s Black Comics: Politics of Race and Representation (2013), José Alaniz’s Death, Disability and the Superhero: the Silver Age and Beyond, and Joseph J. Darowski’s X-Men and the Mutant Metaphor: Race and Gender in the Comic Books (2014) are significant for their insightful exploration of issues of race, gender, sexuality and disability in comics, and for broadening the discourse in the field. This conference seeks to interrogate the representation of marginalized groups in comics and related media.

Thank you for joining us in this endeavor.

Sincerely,

Najwa H. Al-Tabaa
Conference Organizer
President, Graduate Comics Organization

The Graduate Comics Organization would like to sincerely thank our former faculty adviser and ImageTexT’s Founder and General Editor, Dr. Don Ault, who retired from the University of Florida this year. We are very grateful to Dr. Ault for his many years of service, his integral role as Founding Editor and for his work as General Editor for the past 11 years. His stewardship has shaped ImageTexT into the quality journal it is today and helped GCO put on innovative and quality comics conferences year after year.

Dr. Ault's teaching, scholarship, and university service have been instrumental in developing comics studies as a discipline at UF and across the country. He has been an inspiration and valued mentor to many, and his contributions to the Department of English will certainly outlive his tenure.

Dr. Ault and a team of faculty and graduate students (with generous University of Florida support) published the inaugural issue of ImageTexT in 2004, following the 2002 “Will Eisner Symposium,” which was the first UF Conference on Comics and Graphic Novels. ImageTexT has been a UF institution ever since, and we are proud to be continuing Dr. Ault's legacy.

We hope that you will all join us in celebrating Don's years of scholarship and service.

About Our Special Guests

José Alaniz
José Alaniz, associate professor in the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures and the Department of Comparative Literature (adjunct) at the University of Washington, Seattle, has published two books, Komiks: Comic Art in Russia (University Press of Mississippi, 2010) and Death, Disability and the Superhero: The Silver Age and Beyond (UPM, 2014). His articles have appeared in the International Journal of Comic Art, the Comics Journal, Ulbandus, Studies in Russian and Soviet Cinema, the Slavic and East European Journal, Comics Forum and Kinokultura, as well as such anthologies as The Ages of Superman: Essays on the Man of Steel in Changing Times (McFarland, 2012), The Cinema of Alexander Sokurov (I.B. Tauris, 2011) and Russian Children’s Literature and Culture (Routledge, 2007). Since 2011 he has served as Chair of the Executive Committee of the International Comic Arts Forum (ICAF), the leading comics studies conference in the US. In 2014 he assumed the directorship of the University of Washington’s Disability Studies Program. His research interests include Death and Dying, Disability Studies, Film Studies, Eco-criticism and Comics Studies. His current projects include Disability in Alternative Comics and a study on the representation of history in Czech graphic narrative.

Sheena C. Howard
Dr. Sheena C. Howard is Chair of the Black Caucus (NCA) and Assistant Professor of Communication at Rider University. Howard is an award-winning author, including a 2014 Eisner Award winner for her first book, Black Comics: Politics of Race and Representation (2013). She is also the author of Black Queer Identity Matrix (2014) and Critical Articulations of Race, Gender and Sexual Orientation (2014). Howard has appeared on NPR (National Public Radio), 900 am WURD, Philadelphia Weekly and CCP-TV as well as other networks and documentaries as an expert on popular culture, race, politics and sexual identity negotiation. She is also a Huffington Post contributor.

Leela Corman
Leela Corman is an illustrator, cartoonist, and Middle Eastern dancer. She studied painting, printmaking, and illustration at Massachusetts College of Art. She began her career in comics as an undergraduate, self-publishing three issues of her minicomic, Flimflam. This caught the eye of many readers and small press fans, and she went on to win a Xeric Grant in Fall 1999 for the publication of her first graphic novel, “Queen’s Day”. She went on to publish her second, “Subway Series”, with Alternative Books, and has also published numerous shorter pieces in anthologies in the US, Portugal, Spain, and France. Her latest book, Unterzakhn, a graphic novel set in the tenements, brothels, and vaudeville houses of the Lower East Side at the turn of the last century, was published by Schocken/Pantheon in the spring of 2012, and has been nominated for the L.A. Times Book Award, the Eisner Award, and Le Prix Artemisia. Portions of Unterzakhn were serialized in 2008 in the Forward, a prominent Yiddish newspaper, and other excerpts ran in HEEB Magazine and Lilith magazine. Unterzakhn has been translated into French, Spanish, Swedish, and Dutch. Her short comics have run in Tablet Magazine, Symbolia, and The OC Weekly. In 2014, her comic “Yahrzeit” won a silver medal from the Society Of Illustrators. She has illustrated books on topics that range from urban gardening to sex for the very busy to the history of the skirt, and has worked for a diverse array of editorial clients ranging from PBS and the New York Times to BUST Magazine and more.
