Notes:

1. In electives, it is recommended that students take 1 course in lit, art, history, or culture prior to 18th century and 1 course in 19th-century American lit, art, history, or culture.
2. Theory is construed to include cultural studies and feminist studies. If possible, one of the theory courses should be taken in the first semester of study.
3. By the time the student has earned the PhD, it is recommended that s/he would have at least a reading knowledge of two languages (German and French are generally recommended; however, depending on the direction of one's work, Latin and Greek may be equally or more valuable).
